Dear Mr/Mrs Laura,

Through this letter, I would like to express my interest in your declared position. I respectfully submit this letter of application, for what I believe, my knowledge and commitment to excellence, make me well qualified to meet the needs of your institution's dynamic program.

I have earned depth knowledge in computer science and I completed a C# programming academy, which qualifies me to hold this position. My education focused on building ASP.NET Web Forms (MVP, Model-View-Presenter) application using ASP.NET 4.5, ASP.NET MVC (Model-View-Controller) through SOLID (the first 5 principles of Object Oriented Design), Dependency Injection (the set of software design principles and patterns that enable us to develop loosely coupled code), LINQ to SQL (Language-integrated queries), IIS localhost and IIS Express, building objects using IoC containers like a "Ninject" and their life-time, code coverage by unit tests (Unit Testing) with a mocks objects.

I have a complete understanding in data bases like SQL Server too. I would like a new challenge and I feel I could do the C # developer role that you have announced.

I have excellent problem solving abilities and time management skills with the ability to stay organized and I am always dependable. I have the ability to adapt to any type of environment and I can learn the rules and procedures of your company in a fast and efficient manner.

I am a very organized and dedicated person to my work, I like to ensure that I meet my deadlines and I usually am working on a number of different projects at any one time. I believe that my time management skills are good.

I would like to work for a company like yours that has an environment geared towards performance, provides attractive career opportunities, and has an open corporate culture that values and rewards the contributions of its staff.

I would enjoy discussing this position with you in the coming days. Thank you very much for your consideration and looking forward to hearing from you!

Yours sincerely,
Dimitar Stefanov!
